QUESTION1 1

[TOTAL= 22]

(i) Read the following text and answer the questions that follow.

IN YOUR FACE

Choosing friends is an important step towards independence, and it is no accident that parents disapprove of some of their children's choices. "Kids want to introduce friends they think will be unacceptable at home; they want to test and provoke their parents," says Morrison. If we step in too quickly or too firmly, it can cause our kids to be offended and (rebel). "Remember that kids are trying on friends the way they try on clothes," she adds. "This means that many of those friendships will pass quickly unless you make a big deal about it, in which case the kids you don't like are likely to move in."

According to psychotherapist Nikita Crook, peer pressure and friendships are the biggest focus for kids between 10 and 16 years old. And when it comes to picking their friends, mismatches are part of the deal. "You should not be surprised if your really shy kid becomes friends with an outgoing kid in the class. Or if your kid who is a real goody two-shoes gets close to with a kid who has a dark side." These odd couplings help kids figure themselves out. You cannot stop your child from spending time with kids you do not like, but you can establish a code of conduct for when they are in your home.

SECTION B : SUMMARY

[TOTAL=8]

The older you get, the busier life gets. You attended a course where you learned how to become more organised so that life becomes easier. Your Life Orientation teacher has asked you to deliver a talk that will help your classmates to become more organised too.

Read the passage below and write a list of SEVEN points you will include in your talk.

NOTE:

1. List the SEVEN points in full sentences.
2. Use your own words as far as possible.
3. Number the sentences from 1 to 7.
4. Write each sentence on a new line.
5. Your seven-point summary should be NO MORE THAN 60 WORDS.
6. Indicate the total number of words you have used in brackets at the end of your summary.

HOW TO HAVE A MORE ORGANISED LIFE

Sometimes life can get very busy. Being organised can make everything so much easier. Following this advice can help you have a more organised lifestyle.

Put up your calendar. Choose a spot where you'll see it often. After this, set up your planner by filling in the information about what you need to do. This could include homework that must be done and other events you participate in. This way you'll never get confused. Use your sticky notes regularly. Paste them wherever you'll see them easily. This will remind you about things like homework, TV show times and everything else you need to remember.

Do important work first. Make sure that all your homework is finished before you do fun things like texting your friends and watching television. Keep a copy of your weekly schedule with you at all times. This way you'll know if you're free or not when friends ask. Do work as soon as possible. Leaving things until the last minute usually causes you to rush and can lower the quality of your work. Don't give up. If you're not suddenly organised after a few days, don't lose hope. Slowly try using these techniques until you're completely organised.
